Ich bin ein...

~ Although some of Phyllis's family visited Iceland for our wedding in June, others were unable to attend. We decided it would be wise to visit her home and family, most notably her grandmother – Oma. It was wonderful to meet Phyllis's extended family and explore the amazing cities of Berlin, Dresden, and Weimar.

The picture above shows Phyllis's family – Elli, Henriette, Oskar, me, and Phyllis (from left to right). Everyone was hospitable, and Oma treated me like a grandson. We also visited missionaries to Berlin – the Polings. They were very kind, and it was encouraging to see fellow Christians invested in reaching the world for Christ. Please pray that God's protection and influence would be evident in Phyllis's sweet family.

Christmas Program

~ "Practice makes perfect" – or so the saying goes. Unfortunately, with a children's bus ministry and limited time, practice can be tricky to arrange. Although Phyllis and I repeatedly practiced our role in the program, we were unsure how many people – children or adults – would attend. The program was organized, and our volunteer staff was prepared. We just needed people to come and hear the gospel. Thankfully, every child who had an active role in Scripture reading for the program came. In addition, many parents and family members of those children also attended.

These parents, children, and visitors heard not only the Christmas story directly from the Bible but also the message of the gospel. Although we ran out of chairs on stage for the children, it was a tremendous event. Please pray that God's word would take root in the hearts of those who attended.

New Home

~ Phyllis and I have been living in a garage that was converted into an apartment. For financial reasons, while I am in the process of raising support, we decided to move into my parents' house. Thankfully, the house is large enough to provide us with more space than we had before. Over the past few weeks, Phyllis and I have gradually moved everything to our new place. My dad helped me drive a moving truck for the larger items, and I recently finished deep cleaning and touching up the paint in the apartment. Please pray that God would continue to bless us as we settle into our new home.

Yours in Christ,
William and Phyllis Weimer

Thank you for your continued support
and prayers!
