Passover Week

~ Plagues, the Red Sea, Moses, and the Israelites—these are what come to mind when we think of Passover. But what about Jesus and the week leading up to His death? This year, our church met every evening to study and relive what it was like during the week leading up to Christ's crucifixion. It was more than informational—we were able to meet with the people in our small church plant and encourage one another. Several of them are facing difficult circumstances or new life changes. Nevertheless, it was inspiring to see that they still desire to study God's Word and the life of Jesus. Please pray that God would continue to protect and bless these special people.

Easter Sunday

~ One of the women who attend our Icelandic services trusted Christ and asked to be baptized on Passover Sunday. As everyone was making their way outside, another woman—who had previously scheduled a future date for her baptism—spontaneously asked if she could be baptized right then. We had already met with her to talk about her testimony, so we put her in line to be baptized. What we thought would be one amazing baptism turned into two wonderful baptisms.

Afterward, we continued with the outreach bus ministry. Children came and were able to experience some amazing Easter activities. Most importantly, every child was taught the Scriptures and learned about Christ. He is risen! Please pray that these children would remember the lessons that were taught and apply them to their lives.

Family Updates

~ Rosa (my sister) and Dylan are doing very well. Their newborn baby, Toby, is healthy and alert. Phyllis and I cannot wait to see them and meet Toby for the first time. My parents continue to help Rosa during this transition into motherhood. I'm so grateful they've been able to be there for her and Dylan. Phyllis is amazing. She has nearly completed all the requirements to graduate with her bachelor's degree in Icelandic from the University of Iceland. I'm so proud of her. As for me, we have quite a bit of traveling ahead this summer and in the near future. The process of obtaining a visa for Phyllis, as well as the process of gaining further support, is still ongoing. Please pray that God would give me wisdom as we continue to follow His calling.

Yours in Christ,
William and Phyllis Weimer
