Teen Updates

~ The teenager who chose not to get confirmed has now given a definite date for baptism. The entire family—both close and extended—has been invited to attend. I am excited for this teenager and proud that peer pressure and society are taking a loss. As for our other teenagers, summer is upon us. A couple of them have moved north to the country for the summer (a fairly common practice). In other words, they will not be back in church until the beginning of the school semester. Several others are getting jobs and going on family vacations. It looks like things are going to slow down over the summer. Please pray that God would allow the sparks ignited in these teenagers' lives to remain alive until everyone returns.

best to have more. I am inexperienced when it comes to contacting churches to ask for support, so this scheduling process has been a learning experience. Please pray that God would help us connect with churches, and that those churches would be burdened for our ministry.

Graduation

~ For the past few years, Phyllis has been studying at the University of Iceland. This month, she received confirmation that she passed all of her final exams. Phyllis is officially finished with college and will graduate with her bachelor's degree in Icelandic. I am so proud of her. God has called us to reach the people of Iceland, and He directed Phyllis to study exactly what she would need to minister effectively. As for the rest of my family, they are doing well. My father helped my sister, her husband, and baby Toby (my nephew) move from Florida to North Carolina. My mother and father will be returning from the U.S. at the beginning of next month, and we are excited to have them back. Please pray that God would continue to guide both of us in our journey to share the love of Jesus with the people of Iceland.

Yours in Christ,
William and Phyllis Weimer
