Teen Outreach

~ We kicked off the month with a teen outreach activity. Three first-time visitors attended, and I was given an amazing opportunity to share God’s Word. Isaiah 44:24 makes it clear that God is invested in our lives at a very early stage. He has a plan and purpose for us. Moreover, He values us; we are His treasure. Some of these teenagers do not feel valued. They are not part of a nuclear (i.e., biblical) family. It breaks my heart to see them live and feel unwanted. My goal was to teach them that there is a God who values them so highly that not only was He invested in forming them from the womb, but He also defeated death on their behalf. It can be discouraging when I know that most of the teenagers before this group eventually quit. However, I have hope. God can change the next generation of Icelanders. Please pray with me that God would change how Jesus is perceived, beginning with this generation.

~ Not all jobs in ministry or on the mission field are glamorous. For example, a fellow missionary was working with me one day as we walked outside to maintain the church’s property (cleaning up trash, checking for vandalism, etc.). Apparently, someone really needed to use the restroom and left us a “gift” on the property. I remember taking a picture of this missionary as he cleaned up the mess. Ministry can be messy, unappreciated, and unseen. This month, I put a lot of energy into one of those unseen parts of ministry – our church website. It needed to be updated and redesigned, especially because we use it as part of our outreach. (We pass out QR codes with the gospel message, and that message is available on the church website.) If you would like to see the work that was done, feel free to take a look here: <https://fbkiceland.com>. Please pray that this tool would be used to spread the gospel message.

Background Ministry

Family Prayers

~ Phyllis and I are planning to travel to the U.S. from September through November of this year to continue raising support. (If you know any churches that might be interested in our ministry, please let me know.) Regarding Phyllis’s visa application, we are still waiting. I have heard no further update. I only know that our application was received. We also have some personal dreams, and we are asking God to allow us to see them come to fruition. Please pray that God would give us patience as we wait for His timing and will, and boldness to put in the work needed to see Him move.

Yours in Christ,
William and Phyllis Weimer
