Thank you for your continued support and prayers!

Holding the Fort

~ Phyllis and I are currently in the U.S. until November 27. While we are away, the church in Iceland must carry a greater burden. Usually, my parents carry the majority of those responsibilities. However, this month, the people in our church went above and beyond. My mother got sick on a Saturday night, and was unable to attend church. My father also needed to tend to and take care of her. Instead of canceling, church went ahead and continued all ministries. They taught the bus children who attended and shared the love of Christ, on their own. I am so grateful to my brother who stepped up, the Sears (fellow missionaries in Iceland), our deacon, and the rest of our volunteers. My parents have invested in each of these individuals, and it is amazing to see them serving Christ, even without me, Phyllis, or my parents. Thank you for praying!

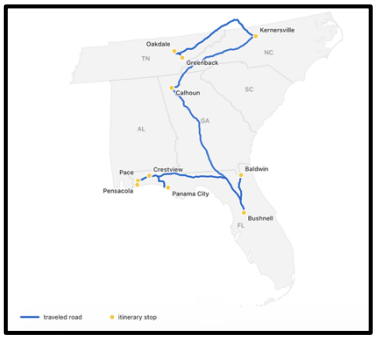

Prayer for Strength

~ While in the U.S., my father has been heading up our teen ministry. This has added to the already heavy burden of college courses, translation work, and all the other currently active ministries. My mother has also had an increased workload. Phyllis normally teaches the pre-K bus children on Sundays and cleans the church. My mother has taken on these responsibilities along with already planning a Christian school from scratch and administering all the other outreach functions of the church. The people in Iceland have risen to the occasion and supported my parents, but the burden and workload have still been compounded. One of the reasons we do not want to leave Iceland for longer periods of time is for this very reason. As my parents get older, the ministry needs more help, not less. Please pray that God would give my parents continued strength.

Ministry Travels

~ Thank you to all those who have been praying for our safety. For most of the month of September, we have been in Florida and Georgia with short stops in Tennessee and North Carolina. We have driven a lot, but God has kept us safe. All of our meetings have gone well. The churches we visited showed incredible kindness. As of now, we are heading further north, back to the Carolinas. To those who have put us up as we have traveled, thank you! We are honored and grateful to have so many who are willing to help us along on this adventure. Please pray that God would give us continued safety during our travels.

Yours in Christ,
William and Phyllis Weimer
